France, Where Every Man's a King — and Chaos stalks Land

If any proof is needed that universal suffrage and instantaneous response of government to the wishes of the people are not themselves enough to make a solid and enduring republic then you have that proof in the republic of France today.

Pierre Mendes-France was sworn into office this week as the 14th premier in the 10 years since France was liberated from the Germans. It's as though the United States had installed and kicked out of office 10 presidents in the same period of time, because the French premier is the actual head of the nation.

In our own country we have had but two Presidents in the same 10 years. For the reason that in the United States the head of state is elected for an inflexible term of four years. Even in the congress the term is fixed, and the prevailing party's majority couldn't be overturned often than every two years.

Like the French we have universal suffrage; but unlike the French we hold the voters to account for a stipulated term on the men and the policies they voted for. If the voters made a mistake it's a mistake they've got to live with for a while. It makes for more thoughtful voting, and for a more intelligent and durable government.

But in unhappy France a man may be premier for only a month — or perhaps a day — and an election for the national assembly may come along any hour . . . depending on the moment the trembling government happens to lose a parliamentary vote of confidence. It is a disreputable system.

And France, where every foolish Frenchman imagines he alone is king, may wake up some day to find it the slave of a foreign tyrant.

No Trouble to Giveaway Money in N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — It is no trouble at all to give away money on New York streets.

Five members of a California religious sect touched off a Times Square uproar yesterday when they began handing out $1 bills. Accompanying the bills was a Biblical reminder that "The love of money is the root of all evil."

Even so, the white-robed members of the religious sect found out New Yorkers still love the moo-la — and will even fight to get it if necessary.

Hardly had Master Krishna Vanta slipped to the first greenback to a startled passerby before he was besieged by a shouting, shoving horde of several hundred money-lovers.

For 10 minutes pedestrian traffic was tied up at one of the world's renowned crossroads — Broadway and 42nd St.

"The people behaved like animals," said the master with a shudder after he had been rescued by police.

"They fought over us like dogs over a bone. Obviously, New York is a good place for capitalists and derelicts, but it's no place for common-sense people like us."

The master heads the sect known as the "W. K. C. L. Fountain of the Word," which has headquarters at Canoga Park, Calif. The initials stand for wisdom, knowledge, faith and love.

The five-man group, barefooted and wearing their long hair braided into pigtails, came here to "arouse interest in practical Christianity."

Welfare Rolls Cut 10,000 in a Year

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said yesterday that his rolls have been cut at least 10,000 since he took office last year.

Moss said the number of welfare cases in Arkansas are now at an absolute minimum. The rolls totaled about 75,000 when he took office, and are now between 64,000 and 65,000. Moss said he doesn't expect an increase in the number until the cold weather months.

The welfare commissioner instituted new restrictive regulations and had the help of new legislation to trim the welfare rolls when he started work. He said there are no contemplated changes in these regulations "at least for several months." The Welfare Commission will probably not be asked to review its policies until the cotton harvest is in the field.

High unemployment rates this spring and summer are affecting the welfare payrolls, Moss stated.

Democrats Plan to Fight for Tax Relief

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today Democrats would fight in the Senate to write new income tax cuts into a general tax revision bill that already provides nearly 1½ billion dollars in tax relief for corporations and individuals.

The bill was headed for possible Senate debate next week after the Senate Finance Committee yesterday formally approved the 875-page house-passed measure that would overhaul the nation's tax laws for the first time in 70 years.

The Democrat on the committee had talked of trying to include new income tax reduction provisions, but they apparently made no move to do so.

However, George the committee's senior Democrats said in an interview Democratic strategists have settled on two alternate proposals for full Senate consideration:

1. To reduce personal income taxes $2,400,000,000 annually by a $100 increase in personal exemptions.

2. To give each taxpayer a $20 annual income tax credit. It was estimated this plan would mean a $1,250,000,000 annual tax cut.

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Finance Committee would not comment on proposed amendments, but he predicted the Senate would accept the bill about as it came from his group.

The Eisenhower administration has come out in outright opposition to any new general income tax reduction, contending the government cannot stand the added revenue loss.

However, the administration has backed revenue-losing provisions in the tax revision bill on grounds they would correct long-standing inequities and encourage business expansion and investment.

A number of Democrats have attacked the legislation, claiming it is weighted in favor of big business and the wealthy, but administration officials have contended its benefits would be about equally distributed between business and individuals. Administration spokesmen have argued that business expansion would lead to more jobs.

Actually, the revision bill would provide no adjustments in major tax rates. Its benefits would be realized through more liberal allowances to corporations and individuals.

Doctors Refuse to Point to Cigarettes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) The American College of Chest Physicians refused yesterday to single out cigarette smoking as a suspected cause of lung cancer.

After two hours of lively debate the organization adopted a resolution saying further work must be done before "any single agent or agents can be definitely implicated."

A move to go on record as naming cigarette smoking as a possible suspect was made by Dr. Richard Overholt of Brookline, Mass., a surgeon at Tufts College Medical School.

Speaking for the majority and the noncommittal resolution, Dr. Alvis E. Greer, of Houston, president of the college said too many other things are in the picture to warrant specific pronouncement about cigarettes. Among them he named smog chimney smoke, auto fumes and air polluted by population concentrations.

Dr. Everts Graham, St. Louis Surgeon, renewed his contention that the case against cigarette smoking is a strong one although absolute proof is lacking.

Cherry Announces Speaking Dates

LITTLE ROCK (UP) Gov. Francis Cherry today announced his speaking schedule for the remainder of this week and next week.

He will be in Wynne tonight. He will make two speeches in Little Rock tomorrow — one in the afternoon at the annual convention of the 20th C.A. Arkansas National Guard and tomorrow night to the state convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Monday night he will address the Business and Professional Women's club at Marshall. Tuesday and Wednesday he will be in Little Rock. Thursday morning he will speak at a breakfast being given by his friends in West Memphis. And Friday night he will crown "Miss Arkansas" at the beauty pageant at Searcy.

Fall of Government Doesn't Bother Bored French People—They Are Out for Themselves

By HAL BOYLE

PARIS (AP) A man stepped into the hotel lounge and said quietly: "The government has just fallen."

Perhaps there was frenzied excitement in French political circles over Premier Laniel's downfall, but the collapse of France's 19th postwar government created less stir in the hotel lounge than if a patron had risen and accidentally upset an ashtray.

The barman looked up, impassively at the news, then bent down and finished mixing his drink with out the slightest exchange of expression. It was as if he were an American League fan, and someone had just remarked a game in the National League had been rained out.

The American tourists in the lounge, including a number of former war correspondents, began talking animatedly about what the new government crisis meant. A few Frenchmen present listened curiously to the conversation. None volunteered a comment.

None said Laniel was a bum and deserved to topple. None protested he was a hero. None said he was a good man trying to carry out a bad program or a bad man stuck with a good program.

They had or so it seemed to me the half-bored, half-amused indifference of a group of Broadway characters at a night club casually eavesdropping on a table of Texans talking about how much Dallas needed a good hard rain.

A waiter came by. "I ordered a drink and asked, 'have you heard the government has just fallen?'"

"Yes," don't seem at all surprised.

"No."

"You don't seem very concerned either. Doesn't it worry you that another French government has fallen?"

"Why should it?" he shrugged. "I worry about what concerns me. I take care of myself first then the other fellow."

"Is that the way most Frenchmen feel?"

"I would say yes."

"Have most Frenchmen always felt that way?"

"Perhaps not," he said, after a moment of reflection. "But it is the way they have felt since the last war."

"Who would you like to see run the government of France General DeGaulle?"

"No, not DeGaulle," he said. "But it is a matter of little moment to me. They are all out for the money. Me, I take care of myself first, too."

Later I asked an assistant manager of the hotel the same questions. He had much the same attitude as the waiter the government of France was hardly his personal problem, and he had his own life to worry about.

When I asked him what he thought of present French political leaders, he said, "very seriously. They are all too small. France needs a stronger man."

Impossible to Tell Cost of Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) The McCarthy-Army hearings were written into history with about 200,000,000 words of testimony and documents and by a very rough estimate, nearly 10 million dollars of radio and television time.

Here is a box score of facts and figures:

Duration 36 days, starting April 22 and ending June 17.

Estimated number of words in transcript 1,700,000.

Estimated words in documents and exhibit in record 300,000.

Pages of testimony 7424.

Estimated time consumed in session 160 hours.

Number of witnesses 30 including senators and committee aides identifying documents under oath.

Major period on stand for a witness all or part of 15 days by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

Shortest period on stand for a major witness 2 days by Francis P. Carr, staff director of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Estimated number of spectators attending session, including "repeaters" 150,000.

"Very rough estimate" of the value of radio and television time used in hearing 10 million dollars.

The networks cautioned the figures at best were only rough estimates, based on the gross value of broadcast time if it had been sold at full commercial rates.

Government officials said it would be impossible to get anything like an exact figure on the cost of the hearings to the taxpayers.

200 Search, Find Girl Asleep

TROY, N. Y. (AP)—Nearly 200 perspiring searchers last night combed bush and swamp for Holly Chase.

The 2-year-old girl had disappeared during a game of hide-and-seek. Seventy-five policemen, 30 firemen and 25 Boy Scouts joined neighbors in the search.

The firemen tackled a nearby swamp, laying down a board walk as they progressed. The cops manned searchlights.

Finally, 14-year-old Gail Fitzgerald recalled that Holly was accustomed to playing in a neighbor's house, and went there to investigate. She found her sleeping in an upstairs closet where the youngster had hidden 3½ hours earlier.

U. S. Calls Home All Diplomats From Geneva

By EDWARD M. KORRY
GENEVA (UP) — The United States ordered all its top-ranking diplomats home from the Geneva conference today, paving the way for France to negotiate on its own for an end to the Indochina war.

An official U. S. announcement said that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had requested Undersecretary of State Walter Edell Smith to "report to them in person on the Geneva conference."

The announcement said Smith will leave for Washington tomorrow afternoon.

Smith will be accompanied by all the top advisers who came here with him or with Dulles in the early days of the Far Eastern peace talks.

American interests will be left in the hands of U. S. Ambassador U. S. Ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

The withdrawal of the American delegates leaves the field clear for new Premier Pierre Mendes-France to reach a possible agreement on Indochina with the Communist bloc.

Mendes-France took office with the promise to gain a cease-fire on Indochina within a month, or resign. He is expected to come here sometime next week to discuss his plans.

Earlier, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had told Smith that he would leave the conference within 48 hours.

Eden and Smith agreed at a meeting earlier in the day that there was no reason to change plans for top-level talks in Washington next week because of the French developments.

Some quarters had speculated that Smith and Eden would be forced to remain here because of Mendes-France's election. This move underscored France's desire for an immediate peace in Indochina and gave the conference new life.

Returning to Washington with Smith were Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, and Herman Phleger, the State Department's legal adviser.

Military Cut Back Hailed as Victory

By JOHN W. FINNEY
WASHINGTON (UP) The administration claimed a new legislative victory today with Senate passage of a cutback military budget of $29,000,000,000.

The Senate shouted approval of the House-passed measure last night after voting to 38 to 20 to defeat a Democratic move to restore two Army divisions scheduled to be eliminated because of reduced funds.

Forty Republicans and 10 Democrats teamed up to block the maneuver removing the last remaining danger to the measure which fulfills most of the administration's requests. Minor differences now will be ironed out by Senate-House conferees.

The bill, as approved by the Senate after only two days of debate, provides $29,216,844,886 in new funds for the military services in the coming fiscal year. This is $800,000,000 less than originally requested by the administration but the administration had trimmed its request after the budget was raised $1,200,000,000 by the House.

The only Senate fight on the defense budget came over Democratic objections that the administration was gambling with national security by cutting military funds $550,000,000 below last year's level. Virtually all cut falls on the Army which will lose one of its 20 divisions this spring, and two more if the coming fiscal year.

Democrats admitted defeat in advance of their move to restore two of the divisions. But they made the attempt anyway in an effort to pin responsibility on the Republicans for Army cuts in the face of what they called a "deteriorating" world situation.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) who with six other Democrats sponsored the move to add $350,488,000 to the budget for the two divisions won support from 37 Democrats and one Republican, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, on the showdown vote.

The bill provides approximately $7,800,000,000 in new bonds for the Army $9,700,000,000 for the Navy and $11,000,000,000 for the Air Force.

U. S. to Revise Policy in the Far East

By RUTHFORD POATS
TOKYO (UP) The United States will embark soon on a major revision of its far Eastern military policy as the result of the breakdown of Korean negotiations in Geneva, army sources believed today.

Two developments are foreseen: As speed-up in the organization and arming with modern weapons of an enlarged republic of Korea army.

2. The building up of a mobile strategic reserve of United States troops on bases in the Western Pacific.

As the South Korean army is built up, it will be possible to withdraw substantial numbers of American troops from Korea according to expert opinion.

These troops would be in position to move quickly to any place in Southeast Asia the Chinese Communists might threaten.

The failure of the Geneva talks adds much importance to the reports Gen. James A. Van Fleet, retired commander of the 8th Army, will make soon to President Eisenhower.

Van Fleet is shuttling between Japan, Korea and Formosa, as the President's personal envoy to assess the military situation and make recommendations.

Failure of the Geneva talks which was expected here, means a long stalemate in Korea with the United Nations armies facing the Chinese and North Korean Communists along the truce line.

Gen. John E. Full, the UN commander in chief, and other high officers do not expect the Communists to renew the war.

Nor do they believe Korean President Syngman Rhee will carry out his oft-repeated threat to march into North Korea.

The chief danger of renewed war in the opinion of American officers, is some "incident" along the truce line that might cause an explosion of fighting.

The Rhee situation, as summed up by one official, is: "Rhee is too realistic to march north and he is too clever to withdraw the threat that he will march."

Farm Wife Admits Shooting Husband

BATESVILLE (AP) — A 55-year-old independence County farmer was shot to death at his home near here last night, and Sheriff Burton Arnold said the man's wife had admitted the shooting.

Sheriff Arnold identified the dead man as Art Morrow, who lived on a farm a mile north of Dowdy, Ark. He said Mrs. Fanny Morrow, 48, is being held here without charge pending further investigation.

Deputy Sheriff C. M. McConnel said the woman told him that her husband was addicted to narcotics. The officer quoted Mrs. Morrow as saying her husband went berserk last night, and that she shot him three times with a .45 caliber pistol when she became afraid that he would kill her.

Fierce Fighting Is Raging in Guatemala

By SAM SUMMERLIN
TEGUICIGALPA, Honduras (AP) Anti-Communist forces battled Communist forces at key points throughout neighboring Guatemala today as a long-brewing effort to oust the leftist-tinged government of President Jacobo Arben Guzman exploded in bloody shells.

The "liberation" troops attacked Guatemala by land and air yesterday, were locked in bloody combat with defending forces at four important cities. There also were reports of internal uprisings throughout embattled country.

A Guatemalan delegate to the United Nations announced in New York last night his government had protested to the Security Council against the "criminal invasion of my country."

The delegate, Eduardo Castillo Arriola, said the protest had been sent to the Cabot Lodge "by" of the United States, Council president.

A spokesman for Col. Castillo Armas, exiled Guatemalan leader of the invaders, said fighting was in progress at ports and two important inland centers. They were:

Puerto Barrios, Guatemala's east coast fruit-shipping port; New York; the National Broadcasting Corp. said its Tegucigalpa correspondent reported last night Puerto Barrios had fallen to rebels.

San Jose, a naval air base, commercial port on the Pacific coast. This city was reported to have been captured by the invaders.

United States during World War II as a long-range plane base. It is still a large line of military equipment.

Retaining a city near the Guatemalan border, it is the junction of a railroad from the coast to the interior and another running from Mexico.

Zacapa, a rail center and Honduran border town, lies east of Guatemala City, the nation's capital.

The spokesman said all four cities were being bombed by planes before the invading troops hit. Capture of the four cities would cut vital links of the capital's rail connections.

The State Department in Washington said it has received reports of serious uprisings in Puerto Barrios, Zacapa and Quetzaltenango, miles west of Guatemala City.

The rebel invading force is said to number about 5,000 men. The Guatemalan Army is about 6,000 strong, but many of the officers are believed disgruntled by the leftist trend of the government.

U. S. officials have expressed fears the Arben regime was fostering a Communist beachhead within short range of the Panama Canal.

Department Store Sales Decline

ST. LOUIS (AP) Department store sales in the Eighth Federal Reserve District last week declined for the sixth consecutive week as compared with sales in 1953.

The decline for the district averaged four per cent. Only city reporting a gain last year was Louisville, which showed a six per cent increase.

The decline elsewhere was three per cent in the St. Louis seven per cent in Memphis, eight per cent at Little Rock, and sixteen per cent for smaller district cities.

For the entire district, the four weeks that ended today were down ten per cent for the year to date, versus four per cent as compared with corresponding periods last year.

Medical School Gets Pay for Services

LITTLE ROCK (AP) The Arkansas State Hospital Board today approved a $42,900 contract for services provided by the Arkansas Medical School.

The amount of the new contract is $10,400 more than the total $23,500 approved for last year's services.

K. W. Newman director of administration of the State Hospital, said the increase is due to additional services to be rendered by the Medical School.

Fund Raising Drive Approved

BATESVILLE — A $400,000 dollar fund raising campaign yesterday was approved by the North Arkansas Conference of the Methodist church.

The money will be used for the proposed $2,500,000 expansion and development program at Memphis Methodist Hospital. Districts in the conference have been asked to raise $200,000. An additional $200,000 is expected from large "individual" donations.

District allotments include: Fayetteville, $15,000; Forrest City $25,000; Fort Smith $50,000; Jonesboro $30,000; Paragould $15,000; and Searcy $15,000.

The Memphis conference has approved plans for raising $75,000 and the North Mississippi Conference has agreed to raise $350,000.

Mendes Starts Picking New French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) France's new Premier, Pierre Mendes-France, worked urgently to form a Cabinet today. He may keep for himself the foreign ministry — replacing Georges Bidault and seek a peace in Indochina through personal meetings at Geneva with the Communists.

French sources reported the new Premier will go to Geneva Monday to fill the diplomatic gap left when Joseph Laniel's government fell.

Mendes-France received a stream of visitors in an office at the Bourbon Palace, home of the National Assembly. He is under pressure to set up a cabinet quickly to make good on his promise to achieve an Indochina settlement by July 20 — or resign.

If Mendes-France takes over the foreign ministry he will be one of the rare "new faces" there since the war. Bidault and a fellow member of the Popular Republican Movement, Robert Schuman, have alternated as foreign minister most of the time since 1945.

The National Assembly vote for Mendes-France, 47-year-old Radical Socialist Moderate, was 419 to 47, with 154 deputies abstaining. The abstainers included members of Bidault's party whose leaders said MRP would not serve in the new government.

Mendes-France became France's 14th postwar Premier. His cabinet will be the nation's 20th in 10 years since liberation.

His three-point program, outlined to the Assembly yesterday, included the promise to reach an Indochina settlement by July 20 or get out. After peace in Indochina was achieved, he said, he would:

1. Submit a "coherent and detailed program for economic recovery."

2. Attempt to reconcile the divisions within France on the European Defense Community Treaty to rearm West Germans in a six-nation European army. Of the six nations, France and Italy still must ratify it.

Bidault's absence from the new government appeared certain after his Popular Republican Movement (MRP) announced it would not take part in Mendes-France's Cabinet.

Mendes-France told the Assembly: "If the conflict in Indochina is not settled and settled quickly it is the risk of war of an international war and perhaps an atomic war that must be envisaged."

He did not outline any precise plan for achieving peace beyond continuation of the Geneva talks and a promise that "no measure will be neglected that shows itself necessary to this end." This implied direct negotiations with Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-tutored leader of the Vietnamese rebels in Indochina. Mendes-France has consistently urged such negotiations in the past.

The new Premier declared, however, that every possible precaution would be taken to safeguard France's forces in Indochina. He also declared his plan did not envisage a surrender.

"France does not have to accept and will not accept conditions for settlement which would be in conflict with its most vital interests," he declared. "France will remain in the Far East. Neither our allies, nor our enemies must harbor the least doubt on the meaning of our determination."

Today's Assembly vote saw Communists, Socialists, Radical Socialists, a big bloc of DeGaullists and scatterings from other parties lined up behind Mendes-France. Independent Republicans and MRP members mostly abstained, but eight MRP's disobeyed party orders to vote for confirmation.

These eight gave Mendes-France six more than the needed 314 votes, even without the 99 Communists and fellow travelers who balloted for him. The Premier had warned the Assembly earlier he would not accept the premiership if his majority was made possible by Communist votes.

The victory made the economic and financial expert France's 14th Premier since the liberator. His Cabinet will be the nation's 20th postwar government.

A brilliant orator, Mendes-France failed by 13 votes to win the premiership during a 37-day government crisis last year. The job was finally won by former Premier Joseph Laniel, who resigned Saturday after losing an Assembly confidence vote on the Indochina issue.

Hearing May Turn Out to Be Warmup

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—After a short rest Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) can be expected back with a fresh box of matches to start another roaring fire under the Eisenhower administration.

The 36-day Army-McCarthy hearings which ended last night may turn out to have been just a warmup for future McCarthy struggles with the administration.

McCarthy wants his Senate Investigations subcommittee, he said to have hearings on whether Communists have slipped into defense plants. Since that seems normally within the scope of his committee, the administration probably won't object.

Then, he said, he wants to consider looking for Communists in the supersecret atom and hydrogen bomb plants and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which does this country's counterspying on the Communists overseas.

"Right there he runs head on again into the administration which stiff-armed him when he tried to look into CIA before. He indicated he might talk to the White House first but didn't say what he'd do if he was turned down."

Over the past four years, McCarthy has hopped from sensational charge to sensational charge and from headline to headline, attacking both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations when it suited him. Only for a year and a half has he headed the subcommittee. Before that he was a lone operator.

Conflict has been his meat and potatoes. He has grown strong in it. The sensations and the headlines have been the breath of his political life. Without them he would be again just one of the 96 senators.

No one, he has said, can stop his search for Communists in the government. It may be that he won't stop, or can't stop, until the Eisenhower administration crushes him or surrenders to him the key to the government's inner doors.

The Army-McCarthy hearings, the highlights of his career to date were rooted in this struggle between his efforts to push and the administration's efforts to keep him from pushing too far.

It was a basic constitutional question over the separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches. If anyone doubted this before the hearings McCarthy left no doubt of it by the time they ended.

As first presented to the public, this seemed to be the quarrel: The Army charged McCarthy and his staff tried to pressure it into giving special treatment to a draftee, G. David Schine, formerly with McCarthy's staff. McCarthy countered the Army was trying to blackmail him into giving up his hunt for Communists in the Army.

Soon it came out there was something else: Some of Eisenhower's closest advisers got together when he demanded that members of the Army's loyalty board appear before him for questioning. He was refused the right to question the board.

Both he Truman and Eisenhower administrations have kept secret the business of the various government loyalty boards. People's reputations, the names of informants and reports of the FBI are involved in the work of the boards in deciding whether a government employee is fit to keep his job or is a security risk.

Basic in the secrecy about the boards is this: if they could be called before Congress to answer for their decisions in any or all cases, their decisions might be made through fear of Congress and not through a desire to be fair.

This didn't discourage McCarthy. During the hearings he called on all government employees to give him any security information they had even though Eisenhower had ordered it kept secret.

The White House called this open defiance of Eisenhower's authority under the Constitution to run the executive branch as he thinks best for the national security. McCarthy disputed that, saying that as a committee chairman he is authorized to receive such information.

When, at the very end of yesterday's hearings, McCarthy announced his interest in the CIA he was serving notice on the administration he was thinking of circularizing the Federal Department Lighting a match.

Council to Permit Drilling of Well

EL DORADO (AP) The El Dorado City Council decided last night to allow a permit for drilling an oil well within the city limits to stand.

In a special meeting, the Council ordered its Ordinance and Citizens Committees study ways of legalizing control drilling of gas and oil wells within the city.

The council issued the permit April 8 despite the fact that a city ordinance bans oil and gas drilling in El Dorado.

About 400 to 500 citizens signed a petition requesting that the Council revoke the permit and enforce the ordinance.

The controversial well is the F. L. Dumas and A. J. Miller No. 1 located in the northwest section of the city.

The sessions for the third day of the hearing will start at 10 a. m. Monday and will continue through Tuesday.
